

Code of Practice on the Identity Card Number and other Personal Identifiers Compliance Guide for Data Users

This information leaflet provides a step-by-step guide for data users to compliance with the Code of Practice on the Identity Card Number and other Personal Identifiers in the collection, accuracy, retention, use and security of the Hong Kong Identity Card (“HKID Card”) numbers, copies of the HKID Card and other personal identifiers.

INTRODUCTION	2
What does the code of practice cover?	2
What happens if the code is not complied with?	2
When does the code take effect?	2
STEP-BY-STEP GUIDE TO COMPLIANCE WITH THE CODE	2
HKID CARD NUMBER
BASIC POSITION: No right to compel an individual to provide a HKID Card number unless authorised by law.....	2
Step 1: Consider alternatives to collecting HKID Card numbers	2
Step 2: Check whether your collection of HKID Card numbers comes under one or other of the circumstances where this is permitted in the code	2
Step 3: Check whether the way you collect HKID Card numbers ensures that they are truly the HKID Card numbers of the individuals providing them	3
Step 4: Check that you use HKID Card numbers only for one or other of the purposes permitted by the code	4
Step 5: Check that you are NOT publicly displaying or disclosing HKID Card numbers with the names of the HKID Card holders and that you are NOT issuing cards such as staff cards with HKID Card numbers printed on them	4
Step 6: Check that you do not keep records of HKID Card numbers for longer than is necessary to fulfil the purpose for which they were collected	4
COPIES OF HKID CARDS
BASIC POSITION: No right to compel an individual to provide a copy of a HKID Card unless authorised by law.....	5
Step 1: Check whether your collection of copies of HKID Cards comes under one or other of the circumstances where this is permitted in the code	5
Step 2: Make sure that your collection of copies of HKID Cards does NOT come under one or other of the circumstances where this is specifically NOT permitted in the code	6
Step 3: Check whether the way you collect copies of HKID Cards ensures that they are truly copies of the HKID Cards that are held by the individuals concerned	6
Step 4: Check that you use copies of HKID Cards only for one or other of the purposes permitted by the code	6
Step 5: Check that you are implementing adequate security safeguards for copies of HKID Cards that you hold or transmit.....	6
OTHER PERSONAL IDENTIFIERS	7

Introduction

What does the code of practice cover?

The code of practice gives practical guidance to data users¹ on the application of requirements of the Personal Data (Privacy) Ordinance (the “Ordinance”) to the collection, accuracy, retention, use and security of:

1. the HKID Card number and copies of the HKID Card; and
2. other identifiers that uniquely identify individuals, e.g. passport numbers, employee numbers, examination candidate numbers and patient numbers.

What happens if the code is not complied with?

- Non-compliance with the code is not itself unlawful. However, it will give rise to a presumption against the party concerned in any proceedings involving an alleged breach of the Ordinance. These proceedings could be before the Administrative Appeals Board (“AAB”), the chairman of the AAB, a magistrate or a court.
- Non-compliance with the code would also weigh against the party concerned in any case under investigation by the Privacy Commissioner for Personal Data, Hong Kong (the “Commissioner”).

When does the code take effect?

The code was first approved on 19 December 1997 and revised in April 2016.

Step-by-step Guide to Compliance with the Code

HKID Card Number

BASIC POSITION: No right to compel an individual to provide a HKID Card number unless authorised by law

Unless authorised by law, no data user may compel an individual to provide his HKID Card number. A data user may request an individual to provide his HKID Card number under the circumstances where the collection of the HKID Card number is permitted by this code. In such a case, the code does not, and, in law, could not, prohibit a data user from refusing to deal with an individual who declines to provide his HKID Card number. However, before doing so, the data user should pay particular attention to step 1 below, which requires that consideration be given to offering less privacy-intrusive alternatives to the individual.

Step 1: Consider alternatives to collecting HKID Card numbers

A data user that proposes to collect HKID Card numbers should first consider whether there are any less privacy-intrusive alternatives. If there are, the data user should give the individual the option of choosing such alternatives. Examples of such alternatives are:

- (a) to use another personal identifier of the individual’s choice, e.g. staff card number of a public utility company;
- (b) to accept identification of the individual by someone known to the data user, e.g. where a resident at a block of flats known to the security guard identifies a visitor;
- (c) to accept some form of security e.g. a monetary deposit.

Step 2: Check whether your collection of HKID Card numbers comes under one or other of the circumstances where this is permitted in the code

A data user is permitted to collect a HKID Card number only under one or other of the following general circumstances:

- Where legislation empowers the data user to require individuals to provide HKID Card numbers, e.g. section 5 of the Registration of Persons

¹ A “data user” is defined in the Personal Data (Privacy) Ordinance as meaning, in relation to personal data, a person who, either alone or jointly or in common with other persons, controls the collection, holding, processing or use of the data. In practice, a data user could be a company, a government department or other public body or an individual.

Ordinance (Cap. 177) gives public officers such a power.

- Where legislation requires the data user to collect the HKID Card number, e.g. section 17K of the Immigration Ordinance (Cap. 115) requires employers to keep a record of the number of the document, which is usually a HKID Card, by virtue of which each employee is lawfully employable.
- Where the use of the HKID Card number is necessary to carry out any of the purposes mentioned in section 57(1) of the Ordinance, which are the safeguarding of security, defence or international relations in respect of Hong Kong.
- Where the use of the HKID Card number is necessary to carry out any of the purposes mentioned in section 58(1) of the Ordinance, which include the prevention or detection of crime, and the assessment or collection of any tax or duty.
- Where the use of the HKID Card number is necessary to enable the data user to carry out functions related to the operation of a tribunal or court, e.g. to ensure the correct identification of individuals involved in court proceedings.
- To enable the data user to identify the individual concerned or to attribute data to him where any of the following is necessary:
 - (i) to advance the interests of the individual, e.g. to ensure that the correct medical record is referred to when treating a patient;
 - (ii) to prevent any third party other than the data user from suffering a detriment, e.g. to ensure that someone else is not given the wrong medication because the wrong medical record is referred to;
 - (iii) to enable the data user to safeguard against damage or loss that is more than trivial, e.g. drivers involved in a traffic accident may exchange HKID Card number in order to identify each other when pursuing a claim arising from the accident.
- More specifically, a data user is permitted to collect HKID Card numbers under the following circumstances:

- For inclusion in a document that establishes or is evidence of any legal or equitable right or interest or legal liability that is not trivial, e.g. in documents that establish an individual's right of ownership of a flat.
- As the means of future identification of an individual who is permitted to enter premises where monitoring of the activities of the individual inside the premises is not reasonably practicable, e.g. entry to a commercial building outside office hours.
- As the means of future identification of an individual who is permitted to use equipment where monitoring of the use of the equipment is not reasonably practicable, e.g. the use of a computer that is out of sight of the staff concerned.
- As a condition for allowing the individual to have custody or control of property which is of a value that is more than trivial, e.g. a rental car.

Step 3: Check whether the way you collect HKID Card numbers ensures that they are truly the HKID Card numbers of the individuals providing them

To ensure accuracy, when a data user collects HKID Card numbers from the individuals who are the holders of the HKID Cards, it should do so only in one or other of the following ways:

- (a) Collect directly from the HKID Card physically produced in person by the individual, e.g. where an individual attends in person at a retail outlet of a utility company to apply for service.
- (b) If the individual provides his HKID Card number without at the same time showing the HKID Card, for example in a form which is posted to the data user or over the phone, check the number so collected against the physical production of the HKID Card in person by the individual before using the number for any purpose. For example, a job applicant may provide his HKID Card number in a job application form which is mailed to the prospective employer, but before the prospective employer uses the number, say, to check whether the individual is a previous employee, it should be checked against the physical production of the HKID Card by the individual.

- (c) If the individual has been given the option either to provide a copy of his HKID Card or to present his HKID Card in person, and has chosen to do the former, the data user is permitted to collect the HKID Card number from such a copy, e.g. where an individual chooses to make a postal application for a driving licence rather than to apply for the licence in person.

Step 4: Check that you use HKID Card numbers only for one or other of the purposes permitted by the code

Where a data user has collected a HKID Card number for a purpose allowed under the code, the HKID Card number should generally be used only for that purpose. In addition, the code allows HKID Card number to be used for the following further purposes:

- (a) To manage records relating to the individual that are held by the data user, e.g. a bank may use the HKID Card number as a key to link the records relating to a particular customer.
- (b) To manage records relating to the individual that were collected for the same particular purpose but which are held by more than one data user e.g. the HKID Card number could be used to manage an individual's records under the Mandatory Provident Fund Scheme (MPFS), which will be held by more than one MPFS trustee.
- (c) To carry out a "matching procedure" that is permitted under the Ordinance.

(Note: For guidance on what constitutes a "matching procedure" under the Ordinance and the circumstances under which such procedures are permitted, see the leaflet entitled Matching Procedure: Some Common Questions issued by the Office of the Privacy Commissioner for Personal Data, Hong Kong ("PCPD").)

- (d) A purpose that is required or permitted under any other code of practice that has been approved and is in force under the Ordinance.

- (e) A purpose to which the individual has voluntarily given his express consent.
- (f) A purpose permitted by an applicable exemption in the Ordinance.

Step 5: Check that you are NOT publicly displaying or disclosing HKID Card numbers with the names of the HKID Card holders and that you are NOT issuing cards such as staff cards with HKID Card numbers printed on them

Unless required or permitted by law, a data user should not:

- (a) publicly display together an individual's name and HKID Card number, e.g. in a newspaper notice announcing the results of a raffle;
- (b) make an individual's name and HKID Card number visible together to anyone who does not need to carry out activities related to the permitted uses of the HKID Card number, e.g. entries in a visitors' log book that include names and HKID Card numbers should be concealed from subsequent visitors who enter their details; or
- (c) issue a card to an individual that has the individual's HKID Card number printed on it in a legible form, e.g. a staff card with the holder's HKID Card number printed on it in a form that is capable of being read directly by other individuals.

(Note: This prohibition applies whether or not the card is worn as a badge or is only used while the individual is in particular premises, e.g. the offices of the issuing party. The HKID Card itself and the driving licence are excluded from this prohibition.)

Step 6: Check that you do not keep records of HKID Card numbers for longer than is necessary to fulfil the purpose for which they were collected

Specifically, the code contains the following requirements:

- (a) Where a HKID Card number is collected for future identification of an individual who has been permitted to enter premises or use equipment, the record should be erased within a reasonable period after the individual has left the premises or ceased to use the equipment.

- (b) Where a HKID Card number is collected as a condition for giving the individual custody or control of property, the record should be erased within a reasonable period after that custody or control has ceased.

(Note: A reasonable period in the above contexts would be days rather than weeks.)

Copies of HKID Cards

BASIC POSITION: No right to compel an individual to provide a copy of a HKID Card unless authorised by law

Unless authorised by law, no data user may compel an individual to provide a copy of his HKID Card. A data user may request an individual to provide a copy of his HKID Card under the circumstances where the collection of the copy is permitted by this code. In such a case, the code does not, and in law could not, prohibit a data user from refusing to deal with an individual who declines to provide a copy of his HKID Card. However, before doing so, we advise that the data user should consider whether the purpose of collecting the copy of the HKID Card can be achieved through some other means that may be more acceptable to the individual, e.g. by collecting a copy of some other identification documents such as the relevant pages of a passport.

Step 1: Check whether your collection of copies of HKID Cards comes under one or other of the circumstances where this is permitted in the code

A data user is permitted to collect a copy of a HKID Card only under one or other of the following circumstances:

- (a) To carry out any of the purposes mentioned in section 57(1) of the Ordinance, which are the safeguarding of security, defence or international relations in respect of Hong Kong.

- (b) To carry out any of the purposes mentioned in section 58(1) of the Ordinance, which include the prevention or detection of crime, and the assessment or collection of any tax or duty.

- (c) Where the collection of the HKID Card number of the individual is permitted under the code (see Step 2 in the above section on HKID Card number) and the copy of the HKID Card is further collected for any of the following purposes:

- (i) to provide proof of compliance with any statutory requirement, e.g. an employer may collect a copy of a HKID Card to prove compliance with the requirement of section 17J of the Immigration Ordinance (Cap. 115) to inspect the HKID Card of an individual before employing him;
- (ii) to comply with a requirement to collect the copy which is included in any codes, rules, regulations or guidelines applicable to the data user and which requirement has been endorsed in writing by the Commissioner, e.g. the requirement, which the Commissioner has endorsed, on banks to collect copies of the HKID Cards of their customers in the Money Laundering Guidelines issued by the Hong Kong Monetary Authority²;
- (iii) to collect or check the HKID Card number of the individual, but only if the individual has been given the choice of presenting his HKID Card in person instead, e.g. the Transport Department is permitted to collect copies of HKID Cards for this purpose in relation to applications for driving licences made by post, as individuals are given the choice of presenting their HKID Cards in person;
- (iv) for the issuing of an officially recognised travel document, e.g. the BN(O) passport and HKSAR passport; or
- (v) to enable the data user to carry out functions related to the operation of a tribunal or a court.

² The PCPD has not been asked to give written endorsement of the current Money Laundering Guidelines, probably because Schedule 2 to the Anti-Money Laundering and Counter-Terrorist Financing (Financial Institutions) Ordinance (Cap. 615) now specifies that a financial institution shall identify and verify a customer's identity on the basis of documents provided by a governmental body. Be that as it may, the Commissioner will assess the collection of HKID Card numbers on a case-by-case basis.

In addition, the Immigration Department is permitted to collect copies of HKID Cards in carrying out its functions and activities.

Step 2: Make sure that your collection of copies of HKID Cards does NOT come under one or other of the circumstances where this is specifically NOT permitted in the code

A data user is not permitted to collect a copy of a HKID Card under the following circumstances:

- (i) merely to safeguard against a clerical error in recording the name or HKID Card number of the individual, i.e. the copy should not be collected in order only to enable the person to check the accuracy of the record that has been made of the individual's name or HKID Card number.
- (ii) merely in anticipation of a prospective relationship with the individual, e.g. it would not be permissible for an employer to collect a copy of the HKID Card of an individual only because the employer may wish to offer him employment at some stage.

Step 3: Check whether the way you collect copies of HKID Cards ensures that they are truly copies of the HKID Cards that are held by the individuals concerned

- (a) When a data user collects a copy of a HKID Card from the holder in person, the copy should always be checked against the HKID Card concerned, e.g. where an individual opens a bank account in person and provides a copy of his HKID Card, the bank should check the copy against the individual's HKID Card.
- (b) When a data user collects a copy of a HKID Card from a third party, the data user should take all reasonably practicable steps to ensure that the third party has checked the copy against the HKID Card concerned, e.g. a car hire-purchase finance company that receives copies of HKID Cards of applicants for hire-purchase finance from car vendors dealing directly with the applicants should require the vendors to check such copies against the individuals' HKID Cards.
- (c) A data user who obtains from individuals copies of their HKID Cards other than directly from the individual in person e.g. the copies are sent to the data user by post, should also undertake the following actions:

- (i) The relevant staff should be given training to enable them to detect irregularities on the face of HKID Card copies, e.g. the staff should be instructed on the usual content of HKID Cards so that any omission in a copy would be detected.
- (ii) A system should be instituted for ensuring that HKID Card copies are not accepted unless they have been checked against the original HKID Card and no irregularity has been found.
(Note: The system should be included in any relevant manual of office procedure and practice.)
- (iii) A record should be retained in relation to such copies indicating that they have been collected without being checked against the HKID Cards concerned, e.g. a note to this effect could be made on the copy itself.

Step 4: Check that you use copies of HKID Cards only for one or other of the purposes permitted by the code

A data user should use copies of HKID Cards only for:

- (a) the purposes for which they were collected;
- (b) a purpose to which the individual concerned has voluntarily given express consent; or
- (c) a purpose for which there is an applicable exemption under the Ordinance.

Step 5: Check that you are implementing adequate security safeguards for copies of HKID Cards that you hold or transmit

Specifically, the code requires the following:

- (a) A copy of a HKID Card in paper form should be marked "copy" across the image of the HKID Card. This requirement does not apply to a copy that is awaiting conversion into some other forms, e.g. microfilm or image form, within a reasonable time.

- (b) Where a copy of a HKID Card is subject to the above requirement and is obtained in the presence of the holder it should be marked “copy” in his presence, e.g. where an individual opens a bank account in person and either provides a copy of his HKID Card or the bank makes such a copy, the bank should mark it “copy” in the presence of the individual.
 - (c) A data user that collects copies of HKID Cards should ensure that such copies are treated as confidential documents, e.g. as with other confidential documents they should be kept in locked cabinets or secure areas when not in use. The copies should be kept under secure conditions with access restricted to individuals who need to carry out permitted uses of the copies.
 - (d) A data user should not transmit a copy or image of a HKID Card unless it has taken all reasonably practicable steps to ensure that it is received only by the intended recipient. Such steps could include safeguards such as encryption and dedicated fax machines for receiving confidential material. In case of dispatch by mail, a sealed envelope should be used and the image of the HKID Card should not be visible through any window in the envelope.
- (c) Generally speaking, a data user that assigns personal identifiers to individuals should take all reasonably practicable steps to ensure the security of the system under which this is done. Such steps should include security measures to safeguard against the unauthorised assignment of the identifier or production of any document, e.g. the unauthorised production of a staff card with a false employee number printed on it.

This booklet is issued only for general guidance and should not be relied upon when determining whether or not an act or practice complies with the code of practice. For a complete and definitive statement of the requirements of the code, reference should be made to the code of practice itself.

Other Personal Identifiers

- (a) In general, the requirements of the code in relation to HKID Card numbers also apply to other personal identifiers, e.g. employee or passport numbers, with the necessary modifications. In other words, other personal identifiers may be collected only under the circumstances and by the means permitted for HKID Card numbers and are subject to the same requirements as regards retention and use.
- (b) The above does not apply to the collection or use of such other personal identifiers for a purpose that is directly related to the functions and activities of the person who assigned the identifier to the individuals concerned. For example, an employee number may be collected and used for purposes directly related to the functions or activities of the employer that assigned it, such as managing employee records and the payment of employee salaries.

PCPD.org.hk

Enquiry Hotline : (852) 2827 2827
Fax : (852) 2877 7026
Address : 12/F, Sunlight Tower, 248 Queen's Road East, Wanchai, Hong Kong
Email : enquiry@pcpd.org.hk

Copyright

This publication is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International (CC BY 4.0) licence. In essence, you are free to share and adapt this publication, as long as you attribute the work to the Office of the Privacy Commissioner for Personal Data, Hong Kong. For details, please visit creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0.

Disclaimer

The information and suggestions provided in this publication is for general reference only. It does not provide an exhaustive guide to the application of the Personal Data (Privacy) Ordinance (the "Ordinance"). For a complete and definitive statement of law, direct reference should be made to the Ordinance itself. The Privacy Commissioner for Personal Data (the "Commissioner") makes no express or implied warranties of accuracy or fitness for a particular purpose or use with respect to the information and suggestions set out in this publication. The information and suggestions provided will not affect the functions and powers conferred upon the Commissioner under the Ordinance.

First published in December 1997
July 2016 (First Revision)